

BADICAL INDUSTRIES

raining outside? don't have an umbrella or a johnson controls' poncho? bummer! you're going to get wet, unless...

YOU IMPROVISE!

badical industries will help you stay bone dry with well-tested ancient methods that use materials you can find almost anywhere paper head: using literary works such as technique or creative loafing, grasping either in both hands roofing head and lifting towards heaven where the soaking drops originate. drops are thus blocked.

the bogart: one does this by sneaking quietly and seeking ultimate comfort from the rain under the umbrella of another. the sneak aspect is of dominant importance. if discovered you might be asked to remove from the comfort.

bag head: having a plastic bag is importance number 1. last is placing contents elsewhere than original sack. second tie around head like indian chieftain to block worldly saturation trash bag shirt: procure stylish trash, waste, or garbage bag and empty the contents. cut holes in both sides under the corner. cut hole in top. wear like shirt, allowing you to sit comfortably.

shoulders to sky: this method is known outside of the octagon as non effective. while looking neat is brief, neatness soon fades into fear of cooling wet droplets. since water is by nature hexagonal one must then seek asylum.

shoe head: shoeing is regular among Sasquatch races as a rain deterrent. calmly removing shoe they block dangerous rain particles by holding proudly above.